Job Outlook for 2013 and affordable Housing in Colorado

Despite signs that the economy is improving, the job market has continued to be tough. Martin Pocs will help untangle the current and future job market conditions, highlighting the jobs in demand and the industries in which they occur. You will hear from two of Colorado's leaders in the housing and sustainability market. They will provide their perspective on the question of affordability of housing. We will hear if Colorado has a dearth of affordable housing and reasons for it, how policy changes can make a difference to providing access to affordable housing to all, how sustainability fits into the picture, and what is next for organizations to move the need of providing affordable housing to all Coloradoans.

Admission: Free. Light Snacks provided.

Martin Pocs, Vice Chairman and Managing Director, DHR International.

Martin M. Pocs serves as Vice Chairman of DHR International and is the Managing Director of the firm's Denver office. As one of the three top producers in the history of the firm, Martin has made significant contributions in shaping the success of DHR. His search practice includes diverse industries such as telecommunications, manufacturing, financial services, real estate, advanced technology, consumer products, aerospace, software, bio-medical, mining, renewable energy and non-profits covering a variety of disciplines and general management positions within those industries.

Martin made a very quick rise, being one of DHR's top producers, and is considered one of the world's top 100 executive search consultants. The chairman of DHR, David Hoffmann, has said, "Martin's professionalism, responsiveness, tenaciousness, sense of urgency and utmost dedication to his clients are themes that distinguish his performance."

Prior to DHR, Martin had a 14-year career in human resources, including experience with Sundstrand Corporation, a Fortune 500 aerospace and industrial products manufacturer, and Founders Asset Management, a financial services firm featuring no-load mutual funds.

Martin has been recognized as:

- One of the top 40 dynamic business leaders under 40 in the Denver area;

- Marquis “Who’s Who” in America;
- Past-Chairman of the Board for Goodwill Industries;
- An original inductee to the Rock Valley College Hall of Fame;
- Founding member of Social Venture Partners;
- A selected participant in “50 for Colorado”;
- Founder of DAPS (Denver Association of Professional Services);
- Appointee by the Governor of Colorado as a Real Estate Commissioner;
- Judge for Denver Business Journal’s CFO of the Year Awards;
- 2010 Lifetime Achievement Award from Goodwill Industries;
- Board of Executive Advisors for Northern Illinois University, College of Business;
- A selected Expert Witness in numerous litigations involving executive compensation matters;
- A featured guest on Next Level Recruiting television, in an online video segment for purchase entitled, “Secrets of the Top Producers,” a training piece Pocs developed.

In addition to his many honors and charity work, he has served as an adjunct professor for management-related subjects and was a licensed representative of the Financial Industry Regulatory Authority. He earned his bachelor’s and master’s degree in Management from Northern Illinois University.

Pat Coyle, Director, Colorado Division of Housing

Pat Coyle has over thirty years experience in business development and affordable housing finance. He has worked at all three levels of government and is currently the Director of the Colorado Division of Housing.

Prior to his current position, Pat worked for the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development in Washington, D.C. and Columbus, Ohio; was director of the Colorado Small Business Office for Governor Romer; and most recently directed the housing programs for Denver’s Road Home, Denver’s Ten Year Plan to End Homelessness.

He is a founding board member of Housing Colorado, Inc., the trade association for affordable housing in Colorado.

Teri Whitmore, Director of Regional Planning and Operations, Denver Regional Council of Governments (DRCOG)

Teri Whitmore oversees the long-range planning team, socio-economic team, and the region-wide travel modeling team of the Denver Regional Council of Governments (DRCOG). These multi-function teams work in concert to develop policies and recommend strategies for the Denver region, based on forecast data.

Teri is the Project Manager for the $4.5 million dollar US Housing and Urban Development (HUD) Sustainable Communities Planning Grant for DRCOG and leads the update to Metro Vision. She has over 20-years of planning and management experience in the states of Washington, South Carolina, Missouri, Ohio, and Colorado. Teri has a Bachelors and Masters of Urban Planning from the University of Washington, Seattle. She also has a Masters of Business Administration from Missouri State University.
