This event promises to be engaging and unique, with two different perspectives from the utility sector and its sustainability issues. You will learn about dealing with energy policy issues at the state level for Colorado's Rural Electric Associations. You will also gain a perspective on how a progressive municipality like Ft. Collins plans for and implements a sustainable energy and water infrastructure and supply for their customers.

Kent L. Singer, Executive Director, Colorado Rural Electric Association

Mr. Singer became CREA's Executive Director on January 1, 2010. He had been CREA's general counsel since 1996, representing the association in public utility and legislative matters. Prior to becoming CREA's Executive Director, Mr. Singer was also corporate counsel for Tri-State Generation and Transmission Association, and general counsel for Holy Cross Electric Association.

Mr. Singer was a founding member of the Board of Advisors for the Electric Cooperative Bar Association, and is currently a member of that association, as well as the Denver and Colorado Bar Associations.

Brian A. Janonis, P.E., Executive Director, Fort Collins Utilities

Mr. Janonis has worked as an engineer, for more than 35 years in the areas of water and wastewater engineering and management, primarily as a consultant for utilities and industry. His experience includes project planning, budget, design, construction, startup, and operational services. Mr. Janonis served on the Board of Directors of the Water Environment Federation and was the President of the Rocky Mountain Water Environment Association.

Mr. Janonis, along with his wife, Catherine, enjoys woodworking, hunting, CSU Ram athletics, and is an avid bicyclist.
