Rocky Vista Doctor of Osteopathic Medicine & Regis Master of Science in Health Services Administration

Earn a Dual Degree in Health Services Administration Online from Regis University

Management and leadership positions within hospitals, clinics, private practices, pharmaceutical companies and managed care organizations increasingly require the medical knowledge obtained through a Doctor of Osteopathic Medicine degree combined with relevant management, administrative and business knowledge obtained through a M.S. in Health Services Administration degree.

With both a Doctor of Osteopathic Medicine degree from Rocky Vista and a Master of Science in Health Services Administration degree from Regis University, you'll learn the financial, management, leadership, administrative, operational and strategic planning skills needed to successfully lead complex health care organizations.

Preparing DOs for the Business of Medicine. Together.

The Regis M.S. in Health Services Administration is much like an MBA, but specialized for the complexities of health care. You'll gain the legal, financial, management and administrative skills needed to keep major health care companies and organizations running smoothly and efficiently. You'll also have the opportunity to affect systemic and structural issues within our health systems to enhance patient care and the overall patient experience. Courses in leadership, strategy, finance, organizational ethics, operations, research and technology management will build upon your DO courses and experiences to provide you with a deeper appreciation of the social and ethical obligations and complexities involved in providing health care. Courses are taught by faculty-administrators who are health care professionals and multidisciplinary industry experts.
